Huge potential market in India

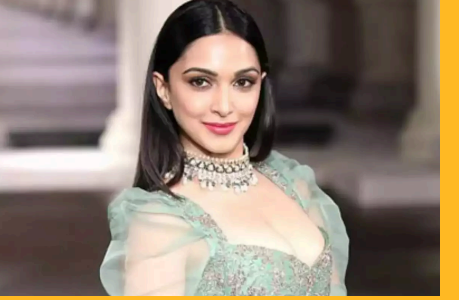

India's proximity to the equator contributes to higher temperatures in the country leading to increased sweating. This makes India one of the most lucrative markets for sports drinks (electrolytes).

The positioning of Gatorade will play a crucial role in its success. Competitive brands in the market such as Sting (45%), Red Bull (22%) and others have done well in this sector. It is necessary for Gatorade to not place itself as a competitor to these energy drinks (more sugar/energy). But rather consciously place it as a rehydrating sports drink which replenishes the important salts lost during sweating. Along with the sports market, we need to place this product not only as an additional supplement for sports people. This image may push people away from buying this product on an everyday basis. Further making it difficult to make it a household brand.

Familiarity: Face of Gatorade

To build familiarity and fame, Gatorade should choose its faces wisely. We must play to our strengths to position as a replenishing drink. But at the same time have some everyday faces such as Bollywood actors/actresses to make it a household brand.

Below we have added some of the key names which could be the face of Gatorade in India.

 Hardik Pandya	 Sunil Chhetri	 Kiara Advani
Cricketer	Footballer, Indian Captain	Bollywood actress
Signed in 2023 Hardik Pandya being renowned in the Cricket world would help us market in one of the most followed sports in India.	One of the most trusted sports personalities in India. Also, the growth of football will be an add-on advantage. Promoting Gatorade through FC Barcelona has been a success which can be replicated here.	Actors/Actresses are important to make any product a household name. Female ambassadors would make our position wholesome, unlike energy brands.

Challenge: “Sweat makes you shine”

Social Media Challenge

29th August - National Sports Day or any similar day can be used to bring the Gatorade wave to India. An online sporty challenge which is aligned with our tagline of ‘Sweat makes you shine’.

Challenge path

- To participate an individual will have to fill out a perform a challenge and record it.
Challenge example: 50 push-up challenge and tag 3 friends
- Upload the video on their Instagram using catchy hashtags such as #sweatmakesyoushine & #nationalsportsdaywithgatorade
- All winners will be mailed discount coupons for Gatorade products/tickets to some upcoming sports event (where Gatorade is one of the sponsors)
- Lucky winners of the challenge would get a chance to win access to the Gatorade community (www.gatorade.com/community)
- Brand ambassadors will participate in this challenge to make this wave successful.

Sponsorships

Category	Event Examples	Description
Sports Events (National level)	Indian Premier League Indian Super League Marathons	- IPL already a renowned sports league in India which is held during summer can be used to promote a similar ad with Hardik Pandya. - ISL and PKL have recently acquired a huge audience which can then further help to grow our brand awareness. - Marathons in India would be more than happy to have a Sports drink as a partner to minimize heat strokes among the participants.
College Fests	Mood Indigo, IIT B Malhar, St. Xaviers Mumbai Zomaland, Zomato	- Market penetration of college fests is good and has much better results in terms of brand awareness in comparison to cost. - Title sponsors at these festivals would definitely make an impression on young people's minds. - Additionally, different Gatorade products can be used as one of the gifts to all sports podium winners. And supply of Gatorade should be the only drink (other than water) available during those sweaty pronites with people singing and dancing, - Also, their social media presence can be used to promote Gatorade.
Rotract Club	District Level Events National Level Events	- Well-recognised global club which has one of the highest student networks around the world. - We can initially start with the district-level sponsorship of the club and later expand to their national-level events. - Kiosks, banners as well as online presence could be used to promote Gatorade.

Other strategies

1. Product placement: Retail store placement which means placing the product on specific shelves or ends to grab shoppers' attention. This form of advertising avoids bombarding the customers with sales language and overtly trying to sell the product rather than subtly influencing the customer to purchase the product. Though it won't lead to instant sales but would gain customer loyalty in turn. In the case of Gatorade, we can target a chain of retail stores like Reliance Fresh, Dmart, and Shivraj.
2. Free samples: Outside college - near to date expiry products. Free samples of the existing Pepsi products to the buyers which we would further help build familiarity with the product.
3. Fitness apps & Gym Chains: Gatorade can be listed as one of the healthy sports drinks with its benefits on different apps that promote running, exercise, sports activities and overall fitness. Physical places such as gyms and aerobic studios can be used to place banners strategically to build familiarity.
4. Corporate tie-ups: Earning individuals can be targeted through these corporate events which further pushes our brand for a household name.
